Policy on Harassment

Academic Dishonesty

8.1 Grievance Procedure--Faculty

When a member of the faculty has a grievance, a problem requiring administrative advice or decision, the matter should be discussed first with the relevant Department Chair and then the Dean.

In the event that the grievance is against the Department Chair, the matter should be brought to the Dean, in writing, and a copy of the grievance letter should be sent to the Vice Provost for Academic Affairs. In the event that the grievance is against the Dean, the matter should be brought to the Vice Provost for Academic Affairs, in writing, and a copy of the grievance letter should be sent to the Provost.

If the problem is not resolved within a reasonable period of time or if the faculty member regards the decision as unsatisfactory, the matter should be brought to the Provost, in writing, and a copy of the communication should be sent to the Dean. The Provost should provide a ruling within a reasonable period of time.

However, if no such ruling is, or can be, made by the Provost or if his/her decision is regarded as unsatisfactory by the faculty member, the matter should be brought to the Faculty Grievance Committee, in writing, with a copy to the Provost. The Faculty Committee should render a ruling within ten working days of its first meeting on the case.

If no ruling is made by the Faculty Grievance Committee, or the result is regarded as unsatisfactory by the faculty member, the faculty member may appeal to the President of the University. The decision of the President shall be final.

8.2 Grievance Procedure--Student

_____, a student may file a grievance if he or she believes that a member of the Claflin University faculty, staff, or administration has violated his or her rights.

Title IX, the Student Grievance Procedure applies to alleged discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, disability or any other legally protected characteristic or status as well as relevant issues that are not governed by other specific grievance policies and procedures such as harassment, academic dishonesty, and grade appeals. When filing a student grievance under these procedures, the student is expected to provide clear and convincing evidence for the alleged discriminatory act. In contrast, however, the preponderance of evidence

The _____ person filing the grievance must be the alleged victim of the discriminatory act. A grievance filed under the Student Grievance Procedure may not be filed on behalf of another person.

8.2.1 Informal Resolution

A student may elect to resolve the grievance informally by requesting a conference either verbally or in writing with the person alleged to have violated his or her rights. The discussion is expected to be held within fourteen calendar days of the alleged violation. The accused party must respond to the student in writing within seven calendar days indicating the resolution of the grievance.

8.2.2 Formal Resolution

If the student declines the option of an informal resolution or in cases when a satisfactory resolution is not reached, he or she may file a formal grievance in writing to the appropriate Department Chair in immediate supervision of the person alleged to have committed the violation. If the grievance is against the Department Chair or Program Director, then the student should address the grievance to the Dean or appropriate next-level administrator; if the grievance is against the Dean, then the student should address the grievance to the Vice Provost for Academic Affairs. The written document must include a detailed description of the alleged act, all facts relevant to the violation, and a description of the requested resolution.

The administrator to whom the grievance was addressed will conduct a formal investigation to resolve the issue within fourteen calendar days. Based upon the results of the investigation, the administrator shall make a determination and submit his or her decision in writing within seven calendar days to the student and the person alleged to have caused the grievance. The written determination shall include the rationale for the decision and, if necessary, the subsequent actions to be taken.

8.2.3 Appeal Procedures

In the event that a grievance remains unresolved after the formal resolution process, a student may appeal the grievance to the Provost. The Provost shall then appoint an impartial committee of three to five individuals to conduct a formal investigation to seek additional facts relevant to the issue within fourteen calendar days. The committee shall prepare a detailed written report of the facts and based upon the report, the Provost shall make a determination and submit within seven calendar days his or her decision in writing to the student and the person alleged to have caused the grievance. The written determination shall include the rationale for the decision and, if necessary, the subsequent actions to be taken. The Provost may choose to appoint another administrator to act on his or her behalf.

8.3 Conflicts of Interest in Personnel Decisions

A potential conflict of interest exists whenever any person performing in an official institutional capacity has the ability to choose among options and the choice may affect the welfare of a member of his or her family or partner.

Potential conflicts of interest are likely to arise in hiring decisions, funding of grant proposals, reappointment, tenure and promotion decisions, and supervision and evaluation situations.

Because it is impossible to anticipate every circumstance in which a potential conflict of interest may arise, no list of remedies can be definitive. However, certain remedies are generally applicable:

1. No employee shall directly supervise another employee who is a spouse, partner, or family member. The Provost, in consultation with the President, will determine how to avoid a conflict of interest in such situations, in the case of faculty members. The President will make the determination for other employees.

2. In circumstances in which an employee has a potential conflict of interest, the employee shall withdraw from the decision-making process until the potential conflict no longer exists. Should the employee disagree that a conflict of interest exists or decline to withdraw from the decision-making process, the Provost, in consultation with the President, may remove the employee (if a faculty member) from further involvement with the decision. The President shall make this determination in the case of other employees. In each case, the adverse consequences to the University of having a person withdraw from the decision-making process shall be weighed against the benefits of reducing potential conflicts of interest.

8.4 Policy Against Harassment, Including Prohibition of Sexual Harassment

It is the policy of Claflin University that all employees and students have a right to work and/or study in an environment free of discrimination on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, national origin, age, sex, disability or any other legally protected characteristic or status.

Any form of harassment, including sexual harassment of employees or students, is a serious matter. All faculty and other employees must avoid offensive or inappropriate sexual and/or sexually harassing behavior at work and will be held responsible for ensuring that the workplace is free from sexual or other harassment.

Specifically, Claflin prohibits the following:

Unwelcome sexual advances of any kind. Individuals must understand that "No" means "No"!

Requests for sexual favors, whether or not accompanied by promises or threats, with regard to employment or academic relationship.

Verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature made to any employee or student that may threaten or insinuate either that any employee's or student's sexual advances will in any way influence any personnel or academic decision regarding that person's employment, evaluation, wages, advancement, assigned duties, shifts, or any other condition of employment, career or academic development.

Any verbal or physical conduct that has the purpose or effect of substantially interfering with the employee's or student's ability to do his or her job.

Any verbal or physical conduct that has the purpose or effect of creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working or academic environment.

Such conduct may result in disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.

Other sexually harassing conduct in the workplace, whether physical or verbal, committed by supervisors or non-supervisory personnel is also prohibited. This behavior includes, but is not limited to, commentary about an individual's body, sexually degrading
